

University of
Zurich <sup>UZH</sup>

Faculty of Medicine | Gender Equality

Symposium for 100th anniversary of
Marie Heim-Vögtlin's death

Interprofessionalism and Equal opportunities Today and Tomorrow

Monday, November 7th, 2016, 17 o'clock
University Hospital Zurich,
Frauenklinikstrasse 10, 8091 Zurich
Grosser Hörsaal NORD1 D

Childcare is available upon request.
Please note accordingly in your registration.

---

Interprofessionalism is the term for two or more health professions working together to provide better patient care. It's a new vision for health professionals.

University of
Zurich <sup>UZH</sup>

Marie Heim-Vögtlin (1845 – 1916) is considered an important pioneer. She was the first Swiss woman to graduate in medicine in 1874 at the University of Zurich, which had been the first medical faculty in Europe to admit women. During her time as physician, she founded in 1901 the Zurich Nurses School. At the 100th anniversary of her decease, the Faculty of Medicine and the Department of Gender Equality will honor Marie Heim-Vögtlin with a symposium on interprofessionalism and equal opportunities.

Program:

- 17:00 h      Greeting
Prof. Michael Hengartner, President UZH
Prof. Rainer Weber, Dean Faculty of Medicine
Hans Gut, President Careum Foundation

- 17:30 h      Equal opportunities today?
Marie Heim-Vögtlin as a pioneer.
Prof. Klara Landau, FEBO, Professor and Chair, Department of Ophthalmology, University Hospital Zurich and Vice-President of the Gender Equality Commission, University of Zurich

- 17:50 h      Adding 'inter' onto professional: a team of experts is not necessarily an expert team.
Prof. Jill Thistlethwaite, MBBS, MMed, PhD, FRCP, FRACGP
University of Technology Sydney

- 18:45 h      Discussion

- 19:00 h      Apéro riche

Registration: fillingthegap@dekmed.uzh.ch